Blender/Food Processor, Duet, Black

Cuisinart skillfully combines a blender with a small food processor without sacrificing the performance or features of either one. This Duet appliance is great for smaller kitchens and apartments with limited counter space and cupboard storage. The 40-ounce glass blender jar whirs at the touch of one of 7 speeds, including a special ice crush setting and pulse. To slice or shred vegetables or fruit, simply remove the blender, replace it with the 3-cup work bowl, collar and cover, and you're off! Even tough jobs like grinding beef cubes or grating Parmesan cheese are a breeze. A chopping blade and reversible slicing/shredding disc are included. The food processor's unique design lets you position the handle and feed tube facing front, side or rear, handy whether you're right or lefthanded. Extra amenities include indicator lights so you know what functions in operation, a hidden cord storage, dripless pouring spout and a feed tube pusher with a built-in liquid dispenser. It's a 2-in-1 appliance worth it's weight in dozens of meals.

enough for crowds and will perform to professional standards. A reliable 360-watt processor liquefies and purees as easily as it crushes ice (on high or low!) and a sturdy base that won't wobble during use. A simple 2-speed operation is all it takes. The heat-proof glass jar has a 40-oz. capacity and is dishwasher safe. And it has easy-to-read English to Metric graduations on the side. Blade assembly is simple to remove and clean. Comes with a five-year limited warranty. And the chrome exterior adds an easy elegance to any kitchen.

Ultimate solutions can fill stockings of hard-to-buy-for friends

Sunday, November 24, 2002

By Kim Crow, Post-Gazette Staff Writer

Pay off
Bills
NOW!

Let's face it, some people are just hard to buy for. They have drawers full of shirts that don't "fit right," sweaters that are itchy, ties that are "loud," a closet full of dusty gadgets. So what to do?

"Don't give gifts that you think someone "needs," but something they think they need," says Sally Holmes, a spokesperson with Shopper.com "Think in terms of something they would buy for themselves."

Here are some of the latest items that may find favor with your finicky friends and relatives:

FOR THE GOLFER:

Birthday greetings,
engagements,
weddings & more

The Pinmaster Laser

Rangefinder by Leica should find a lot of fans. The Rangefinder is a souped-up and very specific set of binoculars that gains the golfer a quick overview of the terrain and tells him or her exactly how far the target on the golf course is, be it is a flagstick or a sand bunker. The magnification sighting optics and a measurement accuracy makes orientation easy, even under difficult conditions, and should help golfers select the optimal club for his next stroke. But this help doesn't come cheaply: The Rangefinder is available through golf shops and authorized Leica dealers, with retail prices ranging from $350 to $450.

The Bar Master offers up thousands of drink recipes at the touch of a button. The same company will offer the Wine Master in spring.

The Ben Hogan Apex Tour golf ball is the hottest thing on the circuit these days, but for these prices, it should be. Twelve balls go for about $50, and fans rave about its "staggering distance off the tee and remarkable spin and control." Produced by Spaulding, the four-piece ball starts with a pea-sized energy transfer core that's inside a larger core. Next is a high velocity inner cover, followed by an ultra-thin urethane cover. The balls are in limited availability, but can be found at local pro shops.

FOR THE WEATHER BUFF:

Does your grandfather or grandmother spend endless amounts of time worrying about the weather, watching the Weather Channel or just talking about the weather? Perhaps the solar-powered Vantage Pro weather station would give them a thrill. This wireless gadget sends the latest weather conditions and forecasts from the backyard to the living room, where the readings are received by the wireless display console. It measures all the basic weather variables, such as barometric pressure, temperature, humidity, rainfall, wind direction and speed. It also displays a host of other values calculated from two or more of the measured parameters -- so users can monitor rain rate, dew point, heat index and wind chill. The Vantage Pro is available online at www.davisnet.com. Call Davis Customer Support at 1-800-678-3669 for more information. Be prepared to spend a lot to entertain your family weather buff. The retail price for all this information starts at about $500.

FOR THE LIFE OF THE PARTY:

Now your guy can be the master of all he surveys with a this mix of "Master" gadgets from Excalibur Electronics. All retail for about $29.95. See www.excaliburelectronics.com or call 1-800-59-CHESS.

The Bar Master: Never make a mistake mixing a drink again. The hand-held Bar Master contains the recipe for thousands of mixed drinks, and not only does the gadget tell you how to make the drink, but also tells you the proper glass to serve it in, bar tricks and terminology and suggests several drinking games! The Bar Master lets you search for drinks alphabetically by name, by category, by ingredients, by glass, or by type of alcohol. It will even help you calculate a drinker's blood alcohol rate based on their size and what drinks were consumed.

The Joke Master: This hand-held electronic device puts more than a 1,000 jokes a mere hand's grab away, and it comes in two versions, kid-friendly G-rated and an adult version, which includes quite a few racy jokes.

New State-of-the-Art Site Features Over 2,400 Products from the Popular Gift

Retailer and Cataloger

NASHUA, N.H., Oct. 25 /PRNewswire/ --

Brookstone (Nasdaq: BKST) announced that it has launched a completely revamped and re-engineered e-commerce site at www.Brookstone.com. The site re-launch was timed to meet customer demand for the key Holiday sales period. The new web site incorporates the most consumer-oriented, performance enhancing features available today.

Online customers will immediately notice a dynamic new look to the site. As they navigate through the product categories and gift ideas they will enjoy the rich content that accompanies each product. Many products will have multiple images and some key items will be supplemented with Flash presentations. Also new to the site will be online Owner's Manuals for Brookstone products.

Capitalizing on Brookstone's reputation as the source for gifts, the "Gift Wizard" feature will allow customers to see customized gift suggestions for every type of person and occasion. From the BarSmart Electronic Jigger to the Shiatsu Massage Chair, the new site showcases over 2,400 of the most popular products from Brookstone stores and the company's two direct mail catalogs, Brookstone and Hard-to-Find Tools.

The site also enhances Brookstone's high levels of customer service to their catalog customers. Now, those customers will also have the opportunity to go online to track their order.

"This is our sixth version of Brookstone.com since 1996 and now we have brought the energy and excitement of shopping at our stores to the online marketplace. The future of retailing lies in developing strong, multi-channel contact points with customers and the new site reinforces our leadership position at the mall and through direct mail," said Michael Anthony, President and CEO of Brookstone.

Mr. Anthony continued, "We see our store and catalog customers shopping from the web site, and we see customers doing product research on our site before coming into our stores. The new site ensures that the customer experience will be of a consistently high level at each point of contact."

Started by Scott Young (you may have seen him in action behind bar at the Roxy) in 1994, Bar Smart hosts seminars all over North America.

"A lot of bartending programs are just really basic," says Bar Smart 's Amy Stewart. "We try to take it a step further. It's more than drink pouring, it's entertainment."

Stewart says the success of Bar Smart is proof positive that people want more when they go out.

"People want to enjoy...

INSIDE THE THEORY

People are drinking less, according to the people at BarSmart .

``And performance bartending takes the onus off throwing drinks down people's throats. It's getting creative with promotions,' says
BarSmart president/performance bartender Scott Young.

He says non-alcoholic beverages or mocktails are gaining popularity...

bellying up to Bartender magazine (FORBES, July 13, 1987). Ray Foley, the bartender-turned-publisher who puts out the quarterly magazine with wife Jackie from their New Jersey home, says circulation has jumped 36%, to 150,000, and ad rates are up 33%, to $8,000 a page, since 1987.

Foley's secret for survival is low overhead: He and his wife are the magazine's only full-time employees. And, to numb the recession, Foley works closely with advertisers like Seagram's and Carillon Importers, distributor of Absolut vodka, Bombay Gin and Grand Marnier, on strategies to introduce new products into barrooms.

Naturally, rivals are trying to horn in on Foley's success. Last fall Manhattan-based Jobson Publishing Corp., publisher of six liquor industry trade magazines, began mailing its bimonthly, Cheers, to 60,000 liquor license holders. "I guess they all think I'm making too much money," laughs Foley.

KRTBN KNIGHT-RIDDER TRIBUNE BUSINESS NEWS (DALLAS MORNING NEWS - TEXAS)

July 17, 2000

IRVING, Texas--FOCUS AIDS HOTELS IN MAINTAINING QUALITY: Ever fill out one of those hotel comment cards and wonder if it was headed for the shredder?

Well, chances are if you stayed at a Hilton, Wyndham, Loews, Red Roof, Holiday Inn or any number of other hotel properties, your opinion made its way to Irving and the offices of UniFocus, where it was scanned, tallied and put into a monthly report for the hotel.

Tucked away in a low-rise industrial building near Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, UniFocus gauges the satisfaction of guests at more than 3,000 hotels and finds out how a half-million hotel workers feel about their jobs.

The two go hand in hand, says Mark Heymann, the 48-year-old managing partner of UniFocus. Given today's extraordinarily tough labor market, dissatisfied workers don't stick around. So a happy staff is the key to happy campers.

That's where his company comes in.

UniFocus processes well over 4 million guest-comment cards and more than 500,000 employee attitude surveys each year to pinpoint problems. The Irving-based consulting company also goes on site to find wasted time and duplicated efforts so that hotels can more effectively deploy the workers they have.

"The biggest issue on any CEO's mind these days is labor. It's absolutely paralyzing," says partner John Coolidge, who adds that UniFocus helps hotels, casinos and restaurants do more with less. "We turn raw data into usable knowledge."

AmFac Resorts uses this input to stretch its hotel, restaurant and recreational staff at the Grand Canyon in Arizona, which literally has to import and house its labor. Colonial Williamsburg uses it to enhance the town's unique 18th-century experience while curbing 21st-century costs.

And while UniFocus' primary market is the hospitality industry, the company is beginning to venture into other areas of retail, currently handling GroceryWorks.com's customer-experience survey done via e-mail.

Hilton surveys guests checking out of its hotels with a quick questionnaire that can be answered in 30 seconds while the final bill is being printed out. The data are used to instantly troubleshoot problems as well as track month-to-month satisfaction and loyalty trends.

"Mistakes are going to happen," says Bill Brooks, Hilton's vice president of brand management and performance. "The question is, how are you going to recover? Then, how quickly can you recover? And, can you recover to such an extent that you turn it into a positive event or what we ... notoriously difficult mediums.

So what has changed? One area of real advance has been in electronic monitoring. For instance, the bulk handling company Atlas Equipment has developed an automatic monitoring system which tackles the problem of checking wear and tear on rotary sifter screens.

Rotary sifter screens are exposed to wear and tear day in, day out. Modern production...

...screens visually, but this rule-of-thumb approach involves disrupting the production process.

Atlas's electronic Screen -D-Test bypasses this by detecting any wear via an electronic signal. When wear is detected an alarm is sounded and the LCD control panel indicates the severity of the problem. While special carbon fibre-polyester screen material is required for the Screen -D-Test to work, it can be fitted to existing rotary and line-line sifters...
